FUNCTIONS

Emu Hall

Originally built in 1852 by James Tobias, Emu Hall sits along the banks of the Nepean River in Emu Plains.

The home was constructed as a single storey sandstone building. The roof was originally covered with shingles that are still present beneath the existing corrugated iron roof. The decorative verandah posts, frieze, brackets and balustrade were most likely installed in the 1880s.

The prominent siting of this Victorian style homestead in riverside grounds, on the Great Western Highway and adjacent to the important nineteenth century river crossings, makes this property a landmark site.

After recently completing a two year restoration Emu Hall now offers many visually stunning spaces in which to hold your function, no matter the size.

With stunning water views, extensive grounds, contemporary and heritage buildings, we have created for you a mix of open and intimate areas to suit any occasion from weddings, corporate events, to more intimate affairs. The team at Emu Hall will bring a sense of ease, professionalism and fun to the planning your perfect event.
